

Anderson Lloyd take up residence in prestigious Britomart location

For immediate release

October 4 2016

Leading national law firm Anderson Lloyd has this week moved its Auckland Office into Britomart's prestigious Australis Nathan Building.

The new office, is located in architecturally refurbished floor space above internationally renowned stores Tiffany & Co and Chanel.

"A central location is important to the people we work with and the move is key to the continued growth of the firm. In Auckland we have a focus on corporate, banking and finance and infrastructure and the new office ideally locates us to undertake this work," Anderson Lloyd CEO Richard Greenaway said.

"Britomart is the premium location for business, retail and dining in Auckland and we are excited about being part of this inspiring new environment.

"Our new open plan office is fresh, modern and designed to assist collaboration and staff well-being. It is bright and features exposed brick and wooden beams that place it thoroughly as a historic building with the best of modern design," he said.

Built in 1903 and 1904 respectively, the Nathan Building and Australis House, at 33-37 Galway Street, right on the edge of Britomart's Takutai Square, originally served as shop fronts and storage for two local merchants.

The buildings are Historic Places Trust registered and have been restored and joined under the supervision of heritage architects to preserve their historic features.
